and i dance slowly the aids poem

by sarah winslow october 2000

a	i	d	S
and	i	dance	slowly
and	i	drift	slowly
abandoned	in	deep	spaces
alone,	isolated,	defenseless,	separated,
and	incidentally	dying.
always	interminable	doctors	some armed with	innovative	drugs,	some also	into	diets	strange
and	insidious,	desperately	searching,
attempting	impossible	defense	strategies,
and	imagining	discoveries	succeeding.
am	i	dismissed	simply
as an	instrument of	death?	society, angered,	is	devoid of	sympathy, unable to	ignore	deliberately	such an	intensely	damning	scandal.
awareness	is	dismissed.	some,
are	(indeed,	determinedly)	sure about	immoral	damnation,	suggesting any	intervention of	divine or	spiritual authority	implies a	denial of	salvation.
although	i	don't	see
any	illness,	death	smiles.
aware that	i'm	downward-	spiraling against	incurable	disease,	surely all	involvement	dwindles.	surrounded by answers	incomplete,	drama	slips away	into a	dream of	savage awesome	images,	defying	sacrifice.
and	i	dance	slowly
and	i	drift	slowly
abandoned	in	deep	spaces
alone,	isolated,	defenseless,	separated,
and	i	don't	see
	and a second sec

why.

INTERESTED IN HIV TESTING?

HIV antibody tests are free and anonymous at any public health office, "hokenjo", in Japan. You can call the JAPAN HIV Center Hotline Number for assistance in English:

Tokyo 03-5259-0255 Mon-Fri 12:00 - 14:00; Sat. 14:00 - 18:00

Osaka 06-06882-0282 Sat. 1:00 – 6:00 p.m. Nagoya 052- 831-2228 Sat. 1:00 – 6:00 p.m.

They should have telephone numbers and possibly addresses for the hokenjos in your area. For Japanese, there is sometimes informational counseling or a short film before the test, for foreigners, perhaps a pamphlet, as there's no guarantee the staff speaks English. Generally, you get the results in a couple of weeks.

If you're in Tokyo, the Shinjuku Public Health Center offers counseling in English every Thursday 1:00 - 5:00 and testing every second and fourth Thursday 1:00-3:00.
